Mishaps abundant in opening week

One hunter dies of heart attack, another is wounded and another goes missing

One man is dead and another is seriously injured from separate hunting-related incidents over the past week.

Heart attack

Lawrence Millson, 69, of Oshawa, died of a heart attack while hunting near Esson Lake, west of Wilberforce on Nov. 3.

Millson was hunting that morning when he began to feel weak and returned to the cottage. An ambulance was called, but when assistance arrived, Millson was dead.

Wound

In a separate incident, a 42-year-old Weston man shot himself in the leg while hunting near Stocking Lake in Havelock Township on Nov. 3.

The accident happened before 9 a.m. when Leo Ignozze was walking alone with a loaded rifle with the safety off, slung over his shoulder. He slipped and the gun discharged a bullet into his left leg.

Ignozze summoned help from his hunting companions by firing three shots into the air. He was airlifted to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto for treatment.

Lost and Found

The start of the hunting season has also been an active one for the Peterborough OPP, which was involved in a search for a missing hunter.

Brian Buott of Toronto was found on Nov. 3 after he went missing the previous day in an area of dense bush in Harvey Township.

Buott, 38, was discovered about 1.5 miles north of his hunt camp by an officer operating an OPP helicopter. Although the helicopter could not land in the area, the officer was able to direct a ground search party to the man's location. About 30 hunters assisted in the search.

Buott was cold and complained of sore knees, but police say he was in good spirits. He was to be examined at a hospital where his condition could be further assessed.

Alan Rice is among the many Legion volunteers participating in this year's poppy campaign. He was stationed at Dollo's IGA last Friday, accepting donations in exchange for these small symbols of remembrance. Funds raised through the poppy campaign help support veterans causes, as well as the many community projects endorsed and run by the Legion.

Good news, bad news

St. Joe's will meet budgetted deficit

The good news is that St. Joseph's Hospital will likely balance its budget this year. The bad news is that the budget includes a $300,000 operating deficit.

St. Joseph's Hospital is $285,000 ahead of its budget in the first half of the year, says Bryan McLellan, Assistant Executive Director of Finance. However, he is still predicting a $300,000 deficit by the year's end.

News of the hospital board's positive first half spread optimism throughout Minden after it was announced at last Tuesday's board meeting in Peterborough. However, the broadcast reports failed to note that the hospital is still looking at a large budgetted deficit by year end.

The glowing report of the hospital's financial situation provided local hope that the future of the Minden hospital may be on firmer ground. The $300,000 deficit projected for the the year's end, however, says otherwise.

Six months into its fiscal year, St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre is in a favourable financial position in comparison to its second quarter projections, says a report from the hospital board's Nov. 3 meeting. The hospital is $285,000 ahead of its budgeted deficit, which is projected at $300,000 for the year.

The hospital expects to bring forth a balanced operating budget. However, Executive Director Frank Lussing admits that recent indications from the Ministry of Health regarding equity funding have posed new obstacles in reaching this goal.

The hospital recently received word from the ministry that it will not be receiving equity funding for the current year. The hospital had included more than $500,000 in its budget for this funding.

McLellan said the hospital was banking on receiving $573,000 in equity funding that will not materialize. He said the hospital has always received this form of funding in the past and had anticipated receiving it again this year. However, like many hospitals in province, St. Joseph's will not be getting the subsidy this year.

In spite of this, officials believe the hospital will be able to offset the revenue shortfall.

McLellan says the predictions of an operating deficit for the Minden and Haliburton hospitals is unchanged. He said the two hospitals have consistently operated at a cost to the Peterborough Hospital for at least the past five years. Since the two small hospitals were adopted by St. Joseph's several years ago, McLellan says they have been unable to balance the budgets. He said the ministry offset the deficit for these hospitals during the initial three years, but St. Joseph's has had to inject funding into them for the past five years to balance their budgets.

Minden officers oppose policing law

Five officers with the Minden OPP have been "documented" for their symbolic opposition to new policing laws.

The officers have been wearing tiny blue ribbons on their uniforms to demonstrate their support of the current job action underway by Metro police. This gesture violates their uniform regulations.

The main bone of contention in the new policing legislation is a requirement for officers to fill out a report every time they draw their guns in public. Since police in this area are seldom required to draw their weapons, the level of support from local officers is surprising.

However, retired OPP office Mike Maher says the demand for a report is only a small part of the protest. "The report is not that critical," he says. The true objection is to the lack of support that Ontario's police forces are receiving from the NDP government, he says.

It takes only two to three minutes to fill out a report, says Maher. However, in Metro there are separate forms for another 272 police activities that need to be filled in. "This

A show of support for fellow officers

'The bad guys are heavily armed,' says Mike Maher, who opposes the new police legislation is just one more, but it all adds up."

Maher, who retired from the Minden OPP detachment four or five years ago, shows his support by regularly wearing a blue ribbon on his clothes. And he says he would wear it on his uniform if he was still an officer.

In the past, police were required to fill out a report whenever they discharged a weapon, and Maher says that makes sense. The new legislation calls for a report every time an officer draws a weapon in public, and Maher says that is a problem.

The reports could potentially be used for statistics purposes on individual officers, which Maher says could provide misleading information. A traffic officer, for example would seldom be required to unholster a weapon while an officer regularly investigating criminal offences would be more apt to draw his gun. In the event of a disciplinary hearing against the second officer, his record could be compared to that of the traffic officer. The comparison would be misleading.

The same misleading comparison could be made between Toronto area officers and their counterparts in areas like Haliburton County.

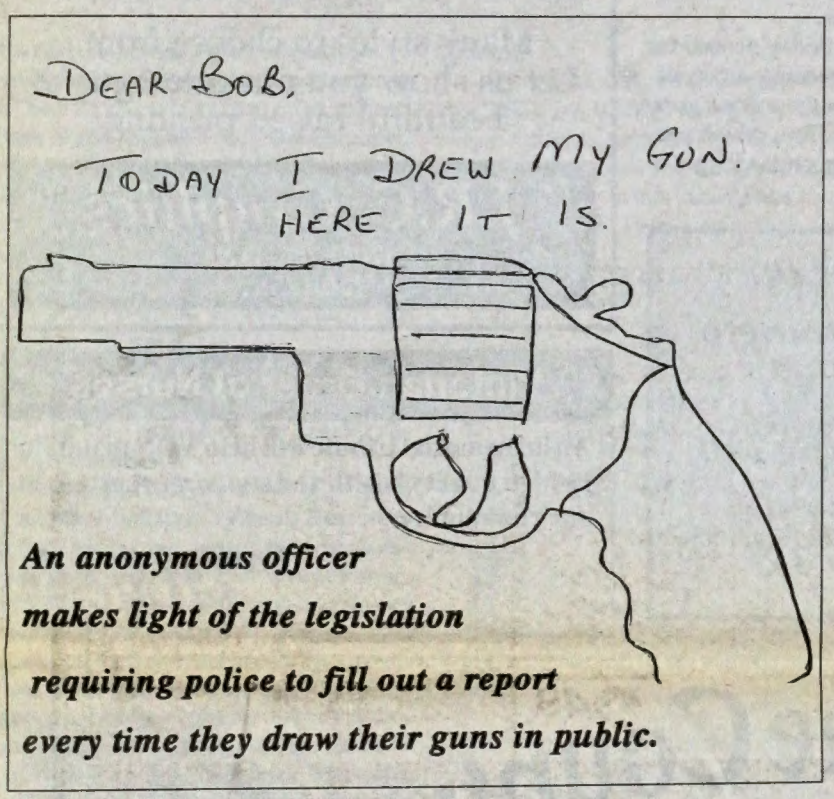
Policing an area like Toronto, where "the bad guys are heavily armed" is very different from policing Minden. Maher says officers in Toronto are far more apt to draw their weapons than officers in Minden.

Minden officers very seldom draw their weapons. However, that was not always the case, says Maher, who remembers the tension that followed the death of two officers in 1968. Following that tragedy, officers in the area were more cautious about their safety and more apt to reach for their weapons in uncertain conditions. Maher remembers thinking, "They're not going to get another chance like that to shoot at me."

By wearing a blue ribbon on their uniforms and civilian clothes, officers are demonstrating that they understand and support the concerns of their fellow officers.

Maher says would be hypocritical if officers are charged for wearing a blue ribbon on their uniforms. He notes that poppies are accepted on uniforms, as are the red ribbons that are worn in support of impaired driving campaigns.

No disciplinary action has yet been proposed for the five Minden officers. However, Sgt. Steve Adam says the penalty for this infraction could potentially result in a suspension.



An anonymous officer makes light of the legislation requiring police to fill out a report every time they draw their guns in public.

Four charged after brawl

A Halloween night disturbance on Minden's Main Street has resulted in charges being laid against four Toronto area men. Police were called to investigate a disturbance on Main street during the early morning hours of Nov. 1. Police dispersed a crowd of about 40 people, but not before a fight broke out.

Charged with causing a disturbance are Ken Comer, 28, Jason Comer, 21, Carrie Comer, 25, and Christopher Curry, 22. All are scheduled to appear in Provincial Court Minden on Nov. 18.

Country and folk featured in Friday's HAVE concert

Highlands villages will be the ones to benefit from the Help a Village Effort (HAVE) concert this Friday night.

The annual HAVE concert is bringing Willie P. Bennett, and Kidd Country to the stage at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School this Friday at 7:30 p.m.. The concert is sure to be a hit with this high-calibre local and imported talent.

Willie P. Bennett's folk style music blends the philosophy of a humanist with the imagery of a dreamer. The legendary performer demonstrates that songwriting is not his only talent. With guitar, harmonica and baritone voice, Bennet belts out his words and melodies with a captivating variety and non stop energy.

Kidd Country, the second feature in this Friday's concert, is a brand new group that brings its own unique flavor to country music. This local band was thrown together in time to make its first performance at the Minden Community Picnic. The response to the music was so overwhelming the group decided to continue performing together.

Kidd Country derives its name from the band's leader, Gord Kidd. A seasoned performer, Kidd's background is in rock music. However, when he was getting a group together to perform for the Canada Day picnic, he was told that country music would strike a chord with the local audience. Thus Kidd "Country" was born.

Although the theme of the band's music is country, the roots include a mixture of rock, jazz and blues. Bass player Charlie Hadley brings a background in jazz to the sound of Kidd Country. Lead vocalist Zoe Chilco comes from a blues background while lead guitarist Lloyd Madill is the lone country element in the band.

"It's still a country sound, but we have all the elements to make it different." Kidd Country's roots are in rock, blues and jazz.

"It's still a country sound," says Kidd, "but we have the elements to make it different."

Kidd thought he was all done with his musical career when he moved to Minden. Fortunately, he found himself in the company of high-quality performers and decided to start fresh again with Kidd Country.

While Kidd Country brings the local, country element to this Friday's concert, Willie Bennett is the big name that is sure to draw crowds to the high school.

Bennett's brush with music began when he was four years old, listening to Hank Williams' records. During his college years, he started playing guitar and writing songs. His first performance was in the early 1970's, and he has since performed across Canada, the U.S. and Europe.

Bennett co-wrote the 1990 CCMA song of the year, Good-Bye, So Long, Hello, with Russell De Carle of Prairie Oyster. his songs have been recorded by Colleen Peterson, The Seldon Scene, Sneezy Waters, Peter Pringle and Bill Hughes to name a few.

Admission to this Friday's concert is by donation and tax receipts are available. The proceeds for the concert go to the Help A Village Effort, which provides funding and support to villages in third-world nations.

Deep Bay fishing

By working along with the Ministry of Natural Resources, the county roads department was able to protect fisheries habitat while rebuilding Deep Bay Road.

It's easy to imagine that fish must have suffered from the intense shoreline alterations in the Deep Bay Road reconstruction project.

Tons of soil, silt and rock were dumped into the water at Deep Bay to create a new road bed. Devil's Creek was diverted, and machinery continually pounded the shoreline for months this summer.

From ground level this project looks like fish habitat devastation. However, that's not how the fish will see it.

Below the water's surface, things looks very different. "Beneath the surface it's a beautiful fish habitat," says Doug Rae, county engineering technician.

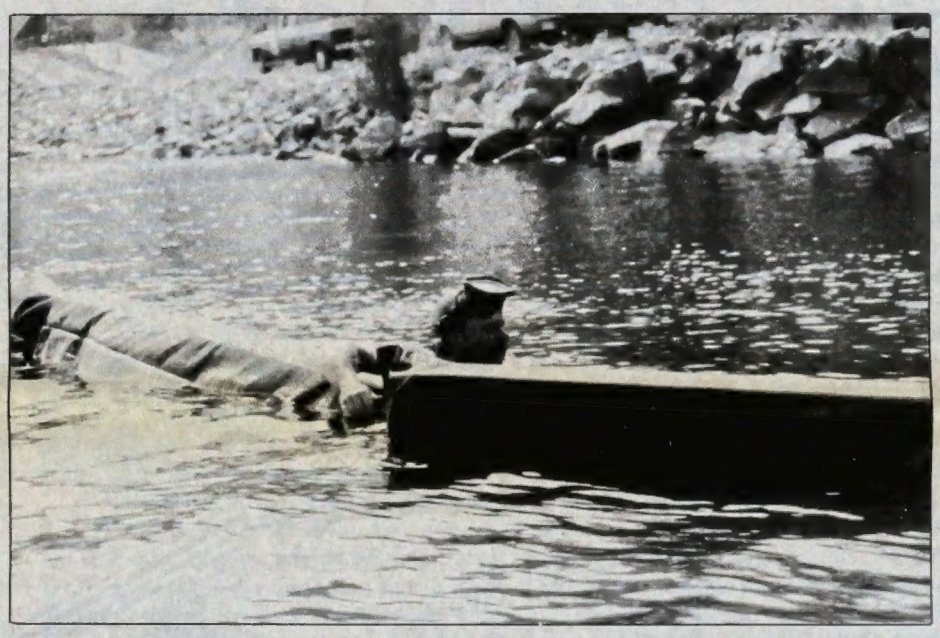
The county roads department worked along with the Ministry of Naturals Resources throughout this project to meet the criteria established by the federal Department of Fisheries and Oceans. By doing this, the county was able to improve the road, while also giving full consideration to the impact this project would have on the fish population.

It was clear from the outset that this reconstruction project would impact on fisheries habitat in the creek and the lake, Rae said. However, by working very closely with the Ministry of Natural Resources, it was possible to minimize the impact and compensate for the damage.

Dave McLeish, a wildlife biologist with the ministry, worked along with Rae to develop a plan that would allow this project to go ahead while respecting the needs of the fish.

McLeish said this project was a source of public concern. People travelling this route could see the massive shoreline alterations and came to the natural assumption that habitat would be decimated. What they didn't see, however, was the painstaking attention being paid to the fish and their habitat.

Projects of this nature now require approval from the federal Department of Fisheries and Oceans. McLeish says the department strives to protect fisheries habitat, and any damage incurred must be compensated for by creating or improving fisheries habitat in the area.



Habitat damage was inevitable, said McLeish. The project meant the filling of 1,200 square feet of Gull Lake and the redirection of a creek, which would send a cloud of silt into the water.

However, the county was able to contain the silt to the shoreline area by stretching 600 feet of filter cloth across the work area. They also timed their work so it would not be going on while lake trout were spawning.

Prior to commencing with any shoreline work, the ministry carried out a netting study which found that seven species of fish, including lake trout and largemouth bass utilize habitat along the shoreline that was to be filled. Since that habitat would be altered, the county had to find a way of ensuring their road work would leave an equally-attractive habitat.

This was accomplished by creating an irregular shoreline through the use of stone, boulders and rubble. The filter cloth was in place to control the silt.

The diversion of Devils Creek posed different problems. Although the creek is generally inhabited by so-called "garbage fish" - suckers, chub and minnows - the county would still have to take creative steps to maintain or improve their habitat. This was done in part by creating artificial bank cuts to create a nice shelter for the fish.

The creek bed was lined with gravel and large boulders were "strategically" placed to imitate a natural river bed.

The county also built a submerged log bank, bank undercuts and a long dock to add diversity to the creek. In addition to the underwater details, 200 shrubs and 300 seedlings were planted along the shore to provide shade and control erosion.

The road project itself still has a long way to go before completion, but the underwater component is ready for the fish. The attention paid to habitat protection in this project is an example of how development can proceed without undue environmental damage. And, says Rae, it was all done with minimal added cost to the county.

Top Photo: A layer of rubble was laid over top of filter cloth at Devils Creek in order to create a diverse habitat for fish.

No sympathy

Get this: a front page story in Saturday's Globe and Mail cries that Toronto's jobless rate is higher than the rest of the nation. In October, the story says, the jobless rate jumped two tenths of a per cent to 12.5 per cent.

Well, excuse us for not being sympathetic. You see, here in Haliburton County, the jobless rate is hovering somewhere around 30 per cent and no one outside of the county seems to be very concerned. Instead of providing relief, or even lip service, to an area whose unemployment rate is almost triple the national average, the province hits us with further cutbacks at every turn. Health care in the county is in serious trouble, our children's resource centres have been forced to cut back their hours to deal with provincial belt-tightening measures, the county is struggling to find space for its growing welfare department, our school system is still way overcrowded and many local businesses are struggling daily just to keep their doors open.

Now get this: another story of the front page of the Globe tells us about the $500-million plans to revitalize Exhibition Place. The provincial and federal governments are expected to provide $127-million each to make this project float.

Five hundred million dollars. Five hundred million dollars. If you repeat it often enough, the magnitude of this expenditure starts to sink in.

Five hundred MILLION dollars will be spent on a recreational facility in Toronto while we in Haliburton are worried about losing our most basic services.

If Haliburton could get its hands on even a small portion of that money, many of our problems would be solved. We could build the hospital which is so obviously needed, expand the county building and at the same time put dozens of people back to work.

It's about time that Haliburton's plight was expressed to our federal and provincial leaders. We urge our representatives to speak up on our behalf and give this county the attention it deserves. It's time for Dennis Drainville to concentrate more on boosting our economy and less on moral issues. It's time for Bill Scott to do something - anything - to make his fellow Members of Parliament understand that Haliburton County is in trouble.

Province taking a look at long term care issues

Editor:

The government of Ontario is engaged in a process to reform long term care in the province. This is a long overdue process and clearly one which is essential if we are to provide the required support to our elderly and handicapped within the fiscal restraints.

The province has conducted extensive consultation in this matter. We have participated actively in that process. In their original consultation document they indicated that they were contemplating an increase in the residents' co-payment (the amount charged by a resident in a nursing home or home for the aged) in the amount of $10 per day. This would raise the basic charge paid to $36.12 per day. In simpler terms it is a possible increase of $300 per month. That amounts to a 38% increase over the present rate.

The government's consultation document states that, "In order to be fair, there may have to be some exceptions to this for a small number of consumers." This reduction in the increase will be effected through a based upon amount of Guaranteed Income Support (GIS/GAINS) which a resident may receive.

On September 17 it was confirmed by officials of the Ministry of Health and the Ministry of Community and Social Services that the increase in amount of $10 will be put in place on January 1, 1993. Residents who receive GIS/GAINS may apply for a rate reduction and will be required to show proof of the amount of that support. The reduction will be in direct proportion i.e. if you receive half the total GIS/GAINS level they would be entitled to a rate reduction of half the increase or $5.

We have accepted the realistic view that costs are increasing and we may have to bear a portion of that cost increase. We have requested that the government match that realism by providing some detail on the need and justification for the increases.

If it is absolutely necessary to increase the co-payment the increase should be gradually imposed in the same manner and schedule that the province proposes to input its share of the total long term care funding increase i.e. over five years. We not only talked about this but also provided the government with an acceptable schedule to do it. The gradual approach has been totally rejected by the government on the basis that they say they need the money now.

It is difficult to believe that when governments are advocating restraint, the government would target the elderly to be victims of a 38 percent increase. They state that this is an acceptable demand. Mr. Rae's government says that the amount is justified because in their view those they have targeted are able to afford it. (You become a target for the full increase when your annual income reaches $10,680.)

If the government applied this "able to afford it" principle to other Provincial Services and legislation such as rent con-

Stop the hospital in-fighting says reader

Editor:

I've taken the liberty of enclosing an article from the magazine Ontario Medicine which may be pertinent to the health care debate currently gripping the county.

I hope it would serve to make our citizens, elected officials and health professionals aware of a possible consequence of the health care study.

Collectively, we should spearhead a campaign to build a new hospital in Minden.

Not that many years ago, Haliburton did just that, resulting in the fine facility of which all county residents can be proud.

Never mind this foolishness of attaching Minden hospital to Hyland Crest.

It is grossly unfair to invade the residents' peace and quiet and to scar the beautiful residential setting they enjoy.

After all, would anyone want an emergency facility attached to their home? I think not. Do not forget that Hyland Crest is their home - not just a nursing institution where they are treated and released.

It is similarly sad and disappointing that the health care planning committee contains such little representation from the local medical community.

Peterborough area representatives can not be discounted. However, they do not represent our communities because, as non-residents, they are unable to feel the deep emotions we hold for this county and its medical facilities.

The Haliburton hospital should get its promised expansion. The funds were raised in good faith and those honourable intentions should not be laid to waste by petty turf wars.

Perhaps we should re-assess our priorities. Enough of bloated egos; enough of pretentious autocrats; enough of political correctness. How about a large dose of common sense.

If we don't stop fighting each other we will all miss the boat - again.

This absurdity has got to stop.

Dwight Thomas

The following is a summary of an article which appeared in the July 20 edition of Ontario Medicine:

Just when things looked as though they couldn't get any worse, the doctors and people of Burks Falls have been dealt another severe blow.

After almost 16 years, Dr. Martin Holmes is leaving the community as a direct result of last spring's closure of the village's 40-year-old hospital.

This follows on the heels of the hospital closing, and on the death of long-time physician Dr. Beverly Hallam, who died just two weeks after it shut down.

Dr. Holmes' departure means that in the past six months the number of physicians serving the community has been cut in half. Two doctors are now left to serve a catchment area of 24,000 people. The area's population also increases dramatically in the summer with cottagers and tourists.

The 19-bed acute care hospital, which had a good financial history, closed because its parent hospital in Huntsville decided to commandeer the hospital's $1.2 million budget to offset its own $2.4 million deficit.

An independent consultant's report later found the Huntsville hospital to be guilty of financial mismanagement. The report also suggested that the closing of the Burks Falls hospital was probably a mistake.

According to the report, the closing of the hospital was not a serious attempt by the board to reduce its operating budget, but was an attempt to obtain additional funding from the Ministry of Health. Following the board's decision, the ministry announced that a community health clinic would be established in place of the hospital. The clinic would offer outpatient services only.

Dr. David Dempster, Burks Falls former Chief of Staff said, "This is a case of a hard-working local board of well-meaning people who don't have a clue what they're doing. "It boils down to the fact that it is extremely difficult to walk into such a complex situation and solve problems without the benefit of experience."

Advisory board seeking solutions

trol, licences, hydro etc. and thus allowed 38% increases on such items there would be an immediate outcry. This government knows that and will not even attempt to apply it or even any form of co-payment to other sectors of long term care. Only the residents of long term care facilities, the most vulnerable group, are to be its victims. It is unconscionable, unreasonable and, up until now, unbelievable that a government with even a basic level of social conscience would so such a thing.

There is no doubt that when a general public announcement is made it will, if its consistent with other announcements about the long term care funding, refer to an increase of $200,000,000 of provincial funding with little if any mention of the fact that 75 percent of that is being extracted from the elderly residents of our long term care facilities. Do not be fooled by this and do not let the government get away with it. The truth is that it is coming from the meager funds of elderly residents.

Our efforts to seek a fair resolution will continue. Out aim is to have the government adopt a position which reflects a greater level of fairness and reasonableness and more gradual approach to the implementation of an increase than is suggested by the information available now.

A year ago more than 2000 people attended a rally at Queens Park to demand better funding arrangements. We were promised by the Minister of Health that action would be taken. Not even the most cynical of us believed that meant that the government would dig deeper into the pockets and purses of the elderly in the way this proposal envisages.

Our experience to date in participating in the consultation, in recognizing our responsibility to undertake a portion of the increased costs and in proposing alternatives suggests to us that we cannot do it alone. There is a need to have the people of Ontario become aware that this is not one of those many items recently revealed in the list of potential revenue sources. This is a reality. Unbelievable that it would be imposed in such an uncaring fashion but a reality all the same.

In conclusion try to envisage that you have lived through the Great Depression of the 1930's and all the hardships that it imposed upon people. Envisage the values that those who lived through that period of material deprivation came away with. Now envisage that you are 85 years of age and you have just been told that your costs will increase by $300 per month. You would have to forgive the elderly if they thought the Great Depression had returned and they were no longer living in the alleged age of social enlightenment.

For the love of art...um...make that Art

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

The first people of Canada attached a lot more importance to names than we do. In the Old Days, back before we took away their land and rewarded them with a lifetime supply of Bibles, Indians thought long and hard about what they would call their children. They wanted the name to reflect the personality. Thus, it could be months - in some cases years - before an Indian assumed his given name. Look at the hero in that big Hollywood hit movie last year. He was a middle-aged U.S. Cavalryman before the Indians finally got around to naming him "Dances With Wolves".

Well, what's good enough for Kevin Costner is good enough for me. I want a name change.

And I'm not fussy. You can call me Fumbles With Keyboard or Snores In Church or He Who Walks About With Fly Unzipped. I don't care what you call me.

As long as it isn't Arthur.

I'm sick of Arthur. I've been lugging it around for 49 years now, and I never much liked it.

Mind you, I hated it even more when I was a kid. Back then I was "Artie".

It is extremely difficult to establish one's status as a major teenage sex symbol when the family telephone rings, and you sister answers it, then yells "Artie, some girl wants to talk to you!"

It got worse. Later, I spent a couple of years in England and heard how plummy, upper class Brits attacked my moniker.

"Awww thuh" they called me. Sounded vaguely like a sea lion with indigestion.

Could be worse. At least my parents didn't name me Attila. Or Adolph. Or Oswald, Lee or Harvey.

Names are fickle. Very few American parents are naming their children George, these days. Just as on this side of the border, newborn males sporting the name of Brian are noticeably scarce. "Arthur" doesn't carry such a tattered pedigree. Au contraire. There's Artie Shaw and Artur Schopenhauer and Arturo Toscanini.

Not to mention loveable King Arthur.

And then of course, there's our great moment of glory in Wardsville, Ontario. True story: back in the summer of 1983, a government bureaucrat - the assistant deputy minister in the Ontario Ministry of Citizenship and Culture - wrote a letter to all the municipal clerks in the province. Purpose: to ask each clerk to "submit a short brief or letter concerning the Arts in their municipality - how they are regarded, how they are funded, what effect they have on the life or the economy of the municipality..."

This is one letter he got back:

"Dear Sir:

Reference your letter dated 10 August 1983 requesting information on the Arts in our municipality.

We are pleased to advise that we have four:

Art Harold
Art Morgan
Art Marks
Art Sweet

They are all extremely well regarded in the community. They are mostly funded by Old Age Security Pension and Canada Pension, and all contribute to the economy in their day-to-day living.

We are pleased that you are interested in our Arts. However, we have many other names that also deserve recognition, such as William, Charles, Henry, etc., particularly many of the feminine gender, Mary, Helen, Ellen etc. We would be pleased to forward you a full list if you so wish.

Yours truly,
Harold Turton
Clerk
Village of Wardsville"

There's my answer. I don't have to change my name. I'll just move to Wardsville, where we Arts are really appreciated.

Reading the snowmobile trails

by Andy Holloway

Driving through South Lake Trailer Park, past the huge pot hole in the road and after the initial run of trailers, there's a green sign post - you have just turned onto Snowmobile Street.

Rarely has a place been so appropriately named. There are a couple of hooded snowmobiles on a trailer off to the side, a large covered trailer is decorated with painted snowmobiles and the first and only house on the road belongs to Mark Lester, managing editor of Supertrax and Ontario Snowmobiler magazines and all-round snowmobile enthusiast.

Not only is Lester an editor of the two magazines, but he also co-owns Supertrax and helps run North America's largest annual snowmobile show in Markham, Ontario.

"We're rabid, hard-core, 365 days a year snowmobile enthusiasts," Lester says of himself and his partners, brother Kent Lester and Terry Kehoe.

Snowmobiling is fast becoming one of the most popular recreations in Ontario, Quebec and the Northern United States. Last year, there were 349,000 snowmobiles in Ontario alone and the number of permits sold jumped 15 per cent. In Haliburton County, Lester says $13 million is brought into the area as a direct result of snowmobiling, making it the single highest revenue source in this area during the winter months.

However, it costs thousands of dollars to participate in snowmobiling so why is it becoming so popular, especially in these recessionary times?

"There's room for everybody in this sport. It's not an elitist group of people by any means," Lester says. Painting a stereotypical picture of the snowmobile family, he says Dad has a pick-up, Mom doesn't put on airs and the kids have the love of the country in them.

Lester says he does not see the sport declining in the future either since Canada's population is becoming increasingly older as the baby-boomers move into their retirement years.

South Lake resident Mark Lester (left) and his brother Kent along with partner Terry Kehoe have made a strong and reliable name for themselves in the snowmobile industry with their magazines Supertrax and Ontario Snowmobiler.

"Because snowmobiling is a motorized sport, it gives older people a chance to get out and enjoy the outdoors," Lester says, noting most people over 60 no longer ski.

Lester calls snowmobilers "committed recreationalists" who "live to snowmobile." Lester himself logs about 10,000 kilometers on his machines each winter driving in every nook and cranny of snowmobile country.

For that reason, and many others, Lester and his brother saw an opportunity to combine their love of snowmobiling and making a living. After meeting Ontario Snowmobiler magazine owner Terry Kehoe, the Lesters sold their retail car business in Hamilton to give full-time pursuit to their love.

Neither of the Lesters had any real journalism experience, although Mark had been involved with a small motorcycle magazine, but that factor turned out to be an asset rather than a liability.

"I'm not a journalist first, I'm a snowmobiler first," says Lester who bought his first snowmobile in 1975. "If we weren't involved in the sport, grooming trails with the OSAs (Ontario Snowmobile Associations) and getting in the mud, then we wouldn't be able to write informed editorials."

Sitting on the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association since 1980 has also helped Lester gain insight into the workings of the industry.

"I got to see the volunteers in action, I got to see the heart and soul of the industry."

Many trade magazines, in any industry, are little more than a collection of reworked press releases and Lester says the snowmobile business is no exception. Lester says he and his partners were fed up with the status quo and there was a real opportunity to create informative and critical magazines.

The group has seen Ontario Snowmobiler grow from a circulation of 15,000 to around 60,000. The magazine is mainly distributed to those who belong to snowmobile associations.

They have also seen their annual snowmobile show grow into the largest of its kind in North America. This year there will be 307 booths and 270 exhibitors. The show is a family affair with Mark's wife doing the invoicing and accounting.

However, Supertrax, which was created in 1989 has grown from scratch to a circulation of 300,000. The magazine is distributed in Ontario, a French version is distributed in Quebec and the newest wrinkle is an American version printed twice a year since 1991.

"Our partner Terry Kehoe really likes challenges," Lester says of the decision to start Supertrax. "We call him the throttle and me and Kent are the brakes. Terry likes nothing better than to walk into a tornado and come out with his hair a little messed up."

More importantly, Lester says they can "hang their helmets" on the fact the magazine has gained credibility from its no-holds-barred approach to writing. Lester says there was a whole market just waiting for such an approach, but there were some growing pains - mostly from snowmobile manufacturers.

The first reaction we got from some of the manufacturers was "Hey, what do you think you're doing?" But we send them copies of the letters to the editor we get saying the same types of things."

Lester says the manufacturers know they have to advertise in the magazine and that by being controversial, it makes for a better read and hence better visibility for the companies, and if it encourages better products then so much the better.

Ross Edmonston, general manager of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, says the two magazines are "vitally important" to snowmobiling. Edmonston says Kehoe and the Lester brothers are "almost like the ambassadors of snowmobiling" pointing out that the three spend a lot of time on the trails and not in an office.

Snowmobile clubs share winfall

HCSA to get just $44,000 this year out of $21 million government pot

by Andy Holloway

A lot of confusion surrounds the amount of money being pumped into snowmobiling by various government ministries, but the Haliburton County Snowmobiler's Association will receive only $44,000 this year.

The ministry of Northern Development and Mines is kicking in $14 million for SNO-TRAC (Snowmobile Trail Rehabilitation and Construction), however that money is only for snowmobile clubs north or Sudbury.

The HCSA is only eligible for a $6.75 million "top-up" program funded by the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation says HCSA president Brian Watts. A total of $580,000 over a total of three years was set aside for Region 12 which includes Haliburton, Algonquin and Tall Pines (Dorset) snowmobile clubs.

However, the clubs have to raise half of that money which means Region 12 has to contribute $290,000. For the first year of the program, the government is contributing $60,000 as long as it is matched by the clubs.

"It's very misleading in as much as yes, the government is helping and we appreciate all that, but it's not as glorified as you might think," says Watts

The HCSA is giving all of the money available in the first year to the other two clubs in Region 12 for repairing and creating trails says Watts. In return, the HCSA gets a trail groomer worth $89,000 which is also available. The government will pay for half of the groomer or about $44,000. The HCSA currently maintains about 750 kilometers of snowmobile trails.

To qualify for the program, a region must have a TOPS (Trans-Ontario Provincial) trails system, which the HCSA has, which is designed to attract tourists to the area. Watts says this was done at a convention three years agowhen he first became president of the club and that many clubs did not want to have outsiders use their trails. Those clubs, now, do not get to share in the program.

The government expects the investment to create an economic impact of $10 million in its first year and $35 million within five years.

The government investment is "about time" because snowmobiling has a "tremendous effect on the economy" says Ross Edmonston, the general manager of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Associations.

"The government has finally recognized snowmobiling as a very viable recreation to invest money in," says Edmonston.

"Snowmobiling in the past eight or 10 years has grown significantly and through the feasibility studies we've done, we have identified to the government that snowmobilers spend in the neighborhood of $240 plus million a year through the purchase of snowmobiles, clothing, equipment, repairs, meals and the whole bit."

Much of the funding will go towards developing the OFSA's newTOPS trails which debuts this winter.

About 11,000 kilometers of winter highways will connect Ontario's snowbelt communities and access much of the existing OFSC's 34,000 kilometers of trails. Currently, the OFSC raises its money from the user-pay system.

"Snowmobilers from bordering provinces and states will be able to access this main corridor of trails to go wherever they want to go. It's going to be good," says Edmonston.

Mark Lester, Haliburton County Snowmobile Association member and Supertrax magazine co-owner, says the new trails and the new accommodations that will result will improve Ontario's, and in particular Haliburton's, tourism industry. Lester says if northern communities improve their trails, an all-Ontario loop can be created with Haliburton as the mid point between the north and the United States.

Magazines not afraid to be critical

"Once the snowmobile season starts they travel all over Ontario on snowmobiles spreading the good word, supporting the OFSC and snowmobiling in general so their involvement is invaluable to us," says Edmonston.

There were other problems in expanding into Quebec and America. For Quebec, the magazine has to be translated into French and then read by a French snowmobiler to ensure all of the snowmobile slang and terminology makes sense.

For the American version, Lester says they had to hook up with an American, C.J. Ramstad, in order to sort out all of the legal and business problems. Ramstad himself is an avid snowmobiler and well known in the industry. Two editions of Supertrax are published per year for the American market, while four are published for Canadians.

Expanding to the U.S. was natural says Lester because the types of people who snowmobile are the same in both countries and there was already a lot of cross-border driving. Some of the content and most of the ads change for the American edition creating additional headaches for Kent Lester who pulls the magazine together in Hamilton. The brothers communicate mostly by fax, phone and computer. Both work from their homes so there is little overhead which increases the magazine's profit margin.

Despite similar demographics, Lester says there are a number of differences between the Canada and the U.S. The most obvious one is that snowmobilers pay a user fee of $90 in Quebec and $65 in Ontario.

"In the U.S., they get their associations to lobby the government to groom the trails and make new ones. Their infra-structure is falling apart now because if the government can't afford to spend money on health care then they can hardly be expected to give money to snowmobilers."

In Canada, it is the responsibility of the snowmobile associations to manage their own trails using the money from the user fees, an area which is still largely untapped.

"We have a lot of people riding the trails who aren't paying the user fees. It's the goal of every snowmobile association to get these people paying," Lester says.

Canadian governments have rarely given money to the snowmobile industry, but recently Tourism and Recreation minister Peter North announced that $14 million of provincial funds would be given for Snowmobile Trail Rehabilitation and Construction (SNO-TRAC). The funds will spent on the development of an 11,000 kilometer trans-Ontario trail which will link most of Ontario's snowbelt communities, something Lester says can only help Haliburton County.

Lester says if northern Ontario develops new well-groomed trails then people from Toronto will spend more time in Haliburton because it will be centrally located between the two areas.

Another difference between Americans and Canadians, says Lester, is that Canadians actually spend more money and don't mind paying.

"If people get a good product then they don't mind paying for it, but give people a crappy product and even if it's free they'll still complain."

The average Canadian snowmobiler spends about $150 per day when riding the trails. Lester says snowmobilers spend so much because they come up here for one reason - to ride.

"If you're coming up to Haliburton in the winter, you're probably only coming up to snowmobile. You're not coming up to sit on the deck, boat a little, drink a little and get a tan."

However, Lester says people here will have to work hard to maintain their edge. They have to make sure business does not go to Muskoka.

"This area is really revered internationally as a great place to snowmobile," says Lester pointing out that both Sudbury and Muskoka are building their industries based on the way the HCSA built Haliburton's trails.

"I see the clubs working like crazy, but I don't see anyone else helping them. We don't play our high card. We've got something here that everybody else wants and it's time we realized it."

Lester and his family will be moving away from Snowmobile Street soon, but they are staying on South Lake where they have lived for the past five years.

"South Lake is a pretty special place. When I used to come here before to snowmobile I would dream, 'If only I could live here full-time' and now I am. There isn't any better place than Haliburton in terms of being picturesque and scenic."

Or for snowmobilers for that matter.

Rivalry not all fun and games

Rantin' n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

"Traitor!" yelled a co-worker. "How could you?" asked another. "I want separate offices," demanded the editor slamming a door behind him.

Did the poor soul burn the Canadian flag? Did he vote for the Atlanta Braves in the World Series? No, he moved from Minden to Haliburton Village.

The initial comments were, I confess, said in a slightly joking manner albeit an incredulous one. It seems some people don't take too kindly to people jumping ship in mid-term. However, the move was done in the heat of the apartment searching battle and already I regret the short, boring 25 kilometer drive to work.

How many people commute from Minden to Haliburton and do they receive any abuse about it at all from friends, family or co-workers? Is the natural rivalry, so hyped by the hospital row, really that intense. The answer would seem to be, unlike the national referendum, "Yes".

While in a Haliburton convenience store, an acquaintance walked up to me and wondering, asked why he hadn't seen me in quite a while. I explained I had just moved to the area and the only time we actually met in Haliburton was in work-related situations.

"Oh, where were you living before?" he asked.

When he heard the reply, "Minden", his nostrils flared and sniffed mightily as if I had just told him that his wife's old, and quite insane, Uncle Harry was coming for a six month sleep-over. Or that I like to mix peanut butter with Cheeze Whiz for a hearty snack. New candy bar idea anyone?

On the other side of the county, people questioned my intelligence for leaving the fair community of Minden for the crowded streets of "that other place". The one consistent trend seemed to be that noses wrinkled up wherever I was, no doubt as a natural reaction to the perpetual leaf pile fires that dot the county like spots on a Dalmatian.

These reactions by otherwise completely sane individuals hide the inferiority complex both places have. If one place has something, people in the other place grumble until they get something similar set up in their community.

The two communities depend on one another for support, workers and money among other things, but also compete with each other for those same things. There is an underlying feeling that manifests itself consistently in human nature, particularly around Christmas. "Oh, why do they always get the good stuff," goes the whine.

Why does Haliburton have long-term health beds, the high school, and a real set of traffic lights and not just one of those silly warning lights that blink continually and are ignored just as often.

Why does Minden have the county office, the main OPP office and the Hydro office (whose lights went out during the World Series - not Minden's...hmm)?

There are probably good solid reasons for each of these things and they probably belong in their respective communities. So why argue? Why the dirty looks, the sly innuendo and cheesy gossip?

Why not? Just leave me out of it.

Gun amnesty on until end of month

Canada's new firearms legislation includes an amnesty from Nov. 1 to 30. This is when people can dispose of unwanted, illegal or neglected firearms, ammunition and explosives without fear of prosecution.

Gun owners who meet the requirements acceptable to a registrar of firearms, will be allowed to register certain firearms (those that the law permits to be legally registered) during the amnesty.

Under the new gun control laws, converted fully-automatic weapons, prohibited weapons and firearms prohibited and grandfathered under the Order in Council, will not be allowed registration, although they can be surrendered for disposal during the amnesty.

Persons wishing to dispose of their firearms should contact the police who will make the appropriate arrangements. They will be told to either bring the gun in or, if there is any safety risk, the police will pick it up. A receipt will be issued when the police take possession of a firearm that has been turned in during the amnesty.

In addition to firearms, many Canadians unknowingly keep dangerous war souvenirs, ammunition, explosives and other weapons around the house. This may result in a tragedy. The amnesty provides a legal and safe opportunity for people to check their homes and to dispose of dangerous, illegal and sometimes deteriorating shells and explosives.

The firearms amnesty helps Canadians to obey the law and to act responsibly with unwanted or neglected firearms. It also allows those who are worried about having an unregistered firearm in their home a chance to register it and gain some peace of mind. Contact your local police department for advice to arrange for registration or disposal.

Redmen hockey

The Haliburton Highlands Redmen take to the ice this week for their first home of the season. The game is against LCVI at the Dysart Community Centre on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

Juniors get those last minute blues

by Andy Holloway

In the time it takes to boil an egg, the junior Haliburton Highlands Redmen football team came unglued and lost the Kawartha finals.

With less than three minutes left in the game the Redmen were leading the Adam Scott Lions 7-6. However, a single point on a missed field goal and a fumble recovery in the Redmen end zone for a Lion touchdown put the Lions on top 14-7 - a lead they kept for the last 20 seconds of the game.

Even then, the Redmen were just one step away from tying up the score, but Peter Brohman, subbing in for regular quarterback Sam Little, just overthrew his receiver by about one yard.

"We broke down there in the last two minutes, but we were beat, we were tired and with any bounces at all it was anybody's football game," said Redmen coach Gary Brohman.

The deciding touchdown of the game came after Scott Calder, who in the pre-game warm-up had been kicking field goals from 40 yards out, missed a 27 yard effort. The Redmen could not retain possession of the ball and with less than two minutes left in the game the Lions drove down the field. The Lions decided to punt, this time from inside the 20 yard line, but it too went wide. Sam Little, who was deep in the end zone in order to kick the ball back out, mishandled the ball and a Lion pounced on it for a touchdown.

"In retrospect, maybe I should have had two guys back there, but I thought we could block the kick," said Brohman. "I thought we had a better chance of blocking it than of kicking it out."

In Little's defence, he had played an outstanding game as quarterback for the Redmen up to that point and the slippery ball had been mishandled by many players on both sides during the game. Another Redmen stand-out was, once again, Peter Brohman who rumbled for 214 "tough" yards on 29 carries and scored the team's only touchdown on a 50 yard interception return. Brohman's fourth quarter touchdown gave the Redmen a brief lead.

The offence was effectively shut down for most of the game. Only once did the Redmen threaten to score, but a third down pass just before half-time inside the Lion's 10 hit the upright.

"They contained us pretty good, they had us scouted pretty well and the trouble was that we were always moving the ball around midfield instead of around the goal line," said Brohman.

"The two mainstays (Little and Brohman) didn't fumble once on their hand-offs and that's pretty good for junior football."

The Lions had taken an early first quarter lead after the Redmen had fumbled a punt. The Lions recovered the ball at the 16 yard line and tailback Andrew Scuccato plunged in from the one. The convert attempt was blocked, but the Lions were up 6-0.

Defensively, the Redmen more than held their own. Brohman had 23 tackles, one blocked kick, two interceptions and a knockdown to lead the way. Ryan Goodall, the "monster man" who rushes the quarterback all the time also had a big game with several punishing hits on the Lions running backs and quarterback Mike Brockley.

The offensive line also played well, giving Brohman some extra room to roam.

"It was satisfying to see our offensive line play," said coach Brohman. "They did a great job of blocking and if you're a football player at all the hardest position to play is on the offensive line. Those five kids did a super job."

The loss was the first of the season for the junior Redmen as they, like their senior partners, went through the Kawartha West undefeated. Against a school whose enrolment is more than double Haliburton's, the Redmen showed they could compete with the Peterborough schools. Last year, the Redmen won the Kawartha finals and went on to be Central Ontario (COSSA) champions.

"Winning the junior COSSA championship last year, people have no idea how hard that is," said Brohman. " Then all of a sudden you're 6-0 and you think it's going to happen, but not too many teams, even the Blue Jays, repeat.

"To take that next step it takes so many things to go right. When you lose to a team in a game where if five bounces can go wrong they all go wrong, it's tough."

"But I'm proud of the guys they had a super season."

Haliburton Redmen Chris Dobbin (right) reaches for the ball as it just sails over the outsretched fingers of Crestwood Lion Aaron Guppy. Dobbin could not grab the football either, but he did rack up 64 rushing yards in 14-7 loss to the Lions.

Hockey Redmen ready to roll

by Oliver Greer

A strong defence is going to be the key to victory for this year's Haliburton Highlands Redman hockey team.

The strategy set out by head coach Ron Yake and assistant coaches Paul Longo and Rob Meyers calls for the Redmen to be tough defensively.

This is not to say the offense will be neglected, but a little more emphasis will be placed on shutting down the opposing team's goal scorers similar to the way the Montreal Canadians have in recent years.

With this strategy, coach Longo says the team's success will depend a great deal on strong goaltending. With Todd McCracken and Pete Brohman between the pipes Longo says the Redmen should have no problems with this facet of the game. Two of the key players on the team, among many, says Longo are Bill Bradley, always an offensive threat and Mike Billings, a force on defence with a blistering, but accurate shot from the point.

Last year the Redmen easily rolled over their regular season competition to end the year with a 13-2-2 record and finish in first place in the Kawartha division before being eliminated by Kenner Secondary School in the first round of the playoffs.

Longo says the team should be as competitive this year as it was last year. Hopefully, last year's impressive regular season record can be matched and the team will get a chance to avenge their tough loss to the bruising Kenner squad.

This year, Longo says the Fenelon Falls Secondary School Falcons are the team to watch. Although the young Falcon team looks strong, the Redmen will be ready for their longtime rivals says Longo who adds the team will need some help off the ice.

"We're really hoping to get a lot of support from the community and fans" says Longo.

Seniors' first loss is also their last loss

Crestwood Mustangs easily ride to big 36-6 win over Haliburton Redmen

by Andy Holloway

The senior Haliburton Redmen lost only one game all year, unfortunately it was also their last game.

After handily winning six straight games in their division, the Redmen wound up on the losing end of a 36-6 score against the Crestwood Mustangs in the Kawartha championship game last Tuesday in Haliburton. Crestwood won for the third time in a row, the first time that feat has been done since Peterborough Collegiate did it back in the early 1960s.

It was not so much a game where the Redmen played poorly, although a number of mistakes were made, but a game where the Mustangs were plainly the best team on the field.

"The bottom line is they are a better team than us and we gave it a really good shot," said Redmen coach Gary Brohman. "I thought some of our athletes such as Jay Hughes and Andy Bacon played super, super games and even with that they still beat us. I think Crestwood has a good chance of going to the Metro Bowl."

Even with the high score, Crestwood coach Don Sharp said he thought his team has not played up to its potential yet.

"We still haven't played a full good game, but we're winning," said Sharp. "We haven't put it together yet."

The advance billing of this match-up was whether the Redmen defence could contain the explosive throwing power of quarterback Matt Turner.

It was rumoured Turner could throw 45 yards down-field and lay it into the hands of a receiver who would not have to break stride. On the Mustangs' very first possession Turner drilled a 47 yard touchdown pass to Neil Williamson that left the Redmen defensive backfield gasping for air. Granted the pass was with a strong wind, but it showed what the Mustang offence could do. That touchdown was the first major the Redmen had given up all season.

Prior to that first touchdown, the Redmen had earned three first downs relying heavily on tailback Andy Bacon, before failing on a third down gamble at their own 47 yard line. The Redmen gambled on third down a lot during the game and most of them failed. Bacon, however, was one of the bright spots of the game gaining about 170 yards to be the main offensive thrust for the Redmen.

After the Redmen conceded a single on the ensuing kick-off, neither team could muster any offence. However, the Mustangs blew the game wide open when they were against the wind in the second quarter.

With the Redmen pinned deep in their end, Redmen quarterback Jay Hughes was intercepted by Chad Hope after the ball was tipped at the line of scrimmage. Turner then lofted a seven yard touchdown pass to Morty Bryce and with the convert, the Mustangs were up by 15 points.

The Redmen came close on their next possession to getting back in the game. Aided by two penalties including a 15 yard "running into the kicker" penalty, the Redmen were stopped on a third and two at the Mustang 12 yard line.

The Mustangs capitalized on the turn-over, scoring on a 44 yard pass-and-run play by Turner and Mike Hill.

Finally, late in the first half the Redmen got onto the scoreboard. The defence and special teams play deserve the credit for the Redmen's lone touchdown. A blocked punt after the Redmen pinned the Mustangs deep was recovered by Chris Bradford who rumbled in for the score. A two-point convert pass to Peter Van Leeuwen was dropped.

The tough play by Crestwood was in stark contrast to the easier pickings the Redmen had during their regular season. Crestwood coach Sharp said the tougher schedule Peterborough teams play was a big difference in the game.

"I think Haliburton got hurt by an easy schedule," said Sharp noting that his team had played some exhibition games to see where they stood.

The second half was much like the first with strong defensive play by both teams with the Redmen making the occasional costly error.

While his counterpart shone, quarterback Hughes appeared to have a tough game, throwing two interceptions while completing just four passes. However, the stats do not tell the whole story said coach Brohman.

"Jay Hughes had a great game. If they (receivers) had been catching his passes instead of dropping them...," said Brohman.

Midway through the third quarter after the Redmen had stopped a third down gamble at their four yard line, the Mustangs salted away their win when Mike Hill intercepted a Jay Hughes pass and ran five yards for a touchdown and a 28-6 lead.

While the Redmen may have lost the game, they can certainly hold their heads high as they refused to give up despite the mounting score. Crestwood, initially ranked fourth in Peterborough, was undefeated on the season as of last Friday.

Peter Van Leeuwen gets nailed by a Crestwood Lion defender while Chris Straka (50) looks on. The Haliburton Redmen had a tough time with the Lions' defence.

Bantams get five of possible eight points

The bantam Minden Monarchs had a successful week as they won two of their four games and tied another to grab five of a possible eight points.

Jeff Wray scored three goals and added an assist for the bantam Minden Monarchs and they went on to tie Oakwood 4-4 on October 26.

Wray started off the scoring early in the first period when he fired the puck past the Oakwood goalie after taking a pass from Chris Eskelin. Oakwood then scored the next two goals to take a 2-1 lead.

To start the second period, Wray soored again this time an unassisted effort. Two minutes later, Wray completed his hat trick with assists going to Scott Bailey and Paul Murray. With Minden up 3-2, Oakwood stormed back to score two more to take a slim one goal lead. With one minute left in the game, Dennis Woods tied the game up for the Monarchs with an assist going to Wray.

Four days later, the Monarchs visited Woodville and bombed them 7-1.

Dave Raback got things going for the Monarchs early in the first period with an unassisted goal. Woodville scored their only goal of the game on goalie Justin Rowden three minutes later. However, with less than a minute to play in the first period, Aaron Belton drove one home to put the Monarchs ahead for good. Assists went to Tom Bagshaw and Raback.

Raback scored his second goal of the game when Dennis Woods slipped him a great pass. Belton scored his second of the game with an assist going to Raback. Belton completed the hat trick a few minutes later with assists to Raback and Tom Bagshaw. To finish the scoring in the second period, Dennis Woods potted one with an assist to Jeff Wray.

The only goal of the third period was fired in by Wray with an assist to Raback who had six points on the night. Goalie Rowden was great in net for the Monarchs.

The following day, the Monarchs beat Fenelon Falls 6-2 at the Minden Arena. The game was a fast-paced, hard hitting game with quite a few penalties to both teams. Fenelon got on the board first with a goal late in the opening period. However, the Monarchs answered that goal when Aaron Belton scored with assists going to Jeff Wray and Dave Raback. Belton scored again early in the second period with an assist from Andrew Crego. Wray put the Monarchs up 3-1 with an assist going to Dennis Woods.

The third period started off fast and furious. Raback scored two goals in a row, the first assisted by Chris Eskelin and the second assisted by Woods.

Fenelon scored to make it 5-2, but Woods assisted by Marty Dettman put the game out of reach.

The final game of the week was played in Oakwood and this time the Monarchs lost 2-1.

Oakwood scored the only goals of the first and second periods to take a 2-0 lead. Tom Bagshaw scored for the Monarchs in the third period with an assist going to Aaron Belton.

The game was a penalty filled affair and very aggressive with plenty of body checking. The defence and goalie Justin Rowden managed to keep Oakwood at bay for most of the game.

Senior captains looking ahead

High Times

by Jenna Strut

Even before school started, the senior Redmen football team was practicing in earnest to better prepare themselves for a tough regular season.

What the team and the coaches would soon realize, however, was that in regular season play there would be no tough competition for an exceptionally strong Haliburton team.

The Redmen's strong defence allowed only 3 points in their six regular season games and scored 190+ points against opposing teams and, until the Kawartha Championships, that's how it would remain.

Unfortunately, an ill prepared and perhaps under-confident Redmen team got a real jolt when they met their Kawartha competition.

Peterborough's Crestwood team was able to take full advantage of the Redmen's weakness in dealing with their strong aerial attack.

After losing at home 36-6, the senior football team's season is over and for a few of its members, their careers as Redmen football players are over as well. Next year they will be moving on to what appear to be bright futures.

Five such athletes were also captains of this year's senior team. They are Jerry Cooper, middle linebacker; Derek Wilson, offensive guard and inside linebacker; quarterback Jay Hughes, tight end Greg Brohman and receiver Chris Greenfield.

Each of these gentlemen have been involved with Redmen football for five years and they are all looking forward to the years ahead.

Jerry wishes to attend Sir Sandford Fleming College to study policing, Derek wants to go to McMaster University for phys-ed, while Jay hopes to go to college and eventually work for Northern Telecom, Greg and Chris wish to eventually enter university and study phys-ed.

Each of these athletes should be very proud of their football careers and yet, even as I spoke with them, they were willing to give the praise to someone else and each seemed to place it on the same person, Rob Kraemer, the centre of the Redmen offensive line. As Jay Hughes said, "He's the most improved player."

Congratulations to the Senior Redmen and Rob Kraemer and we wish all the players who are moving on good luck in the years to come.

Hours reduced as resources cut back

CHACE Update

by Sue Valm, Executive Director

Much has happened since my last report, not the least of which was the presentation of the Volunteer of the Year Award this past September.

Some of you will remember how CHACE has, in the past, organized an annual volunteer appreciation dinner as a way of giving thanks to all of our hard working volunteers for their countless hours of love and giving. Funnily enough, this event was just getting too expensive for our budget (our number of volunteers just kept growing) and so our nomination committee was charged with coming up with an alternate event.

When the idea of the volunteer of the year award was considered, our next hurdle was to decide who should receive the award. In true CHACE spirit, we decided that our first annual would just have to be shared by two people. Congratulations to Lynn Higgs Thompson and Ed Moll for being the first recipients and thank you both for all you have given to CHACE Inc.

Another significant happening has been the reduction of hours at he Haliburton and Minden Resource Centres (the hours at our Day Care remain 7:30 to 5:30 Monday to Friday). The new hours for Minden and Haliburton CHACE Places are: Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The board of directors and our staff are currently looking at reducing Saturday openings as well - possibly closing alternate Saturdays come January. We'll let you know as the time approaches.

The cutback in staffing (and other supports), combined with the increased use of the Resource Centres, challenges us to stretch our resources like never before. As I'm sure you can appreciate, these are very challenging times for our staff as they struggle to continue with their high quality of programming for our children and adults but with limited means. It seems timely, then, to remind our families of the co-operative nature of our Resource Centres. For the most part, both our centres have been supported by parents and caregivers who always help with our activities and who remember to tidy up after themselves and their children. For those of you who may be new to CHACE or who may have forgotten the original intent of Resource Centres, now is the perfect time to give that bit extra. We need your help.

I'm happy to report that our Private Home Day Care Network has experienced an unexpected increase of late. Joining our current roster of caring providers, Hilda Haemsteadt (Minden), Liz Nicholson (Donald) and Gail Kent (Minden) are Andrea Roberts (Eagle Lake) and Melanie Tripp (near Essonville Line). I believe that the new profile child care has enjoyed, in particular the Child Care Reform Consultation process, has resulted in an increased respect for the role of all child care workers, including licensed and informal home care providers. Bouquets to all the child care workers in our county.

The workers at CHACE Day Care in Minden know only too well what is involved in providing loving and exciting care. Know that you are welcome to stop in at any time to view our centre and meet our staff. Full fee ($21.50 per day) and subsidized ($4.30 per day) spaces are available in both our preschool and school aged programs. Call Wendy at 286-4074 for more information on our Day Care or myself, Sue Valm, at 457-4074 for more information on private home day care services.

War veterans remembered

Report from Ottawa

from the office of Bill Scott, MP

This year we have been given two momentous reminders of why November 11 is such a special day in our year.

In April, Canadians commemorated the 75th anniversary of Vimy Ridge, the First World War victory that many have said changed the course of our history.

A group of veterans, all in their 90s, returned to the scene of their triumph where they accomplished what other Allied armies had failed to do - overrun one of the enemy's strongest-held positions in northern France.

Today, there are some 5,000 First World War veterans remaining out of the more than 619,000 Canadians who volunteered to fight.

Over 66,000 Canadians were killed in the First World War, a severe loss to a young country with a population of only around six million.

They died in what was optimistically called "the war to end all wars."

But, just over 20 years later, Canadians were back in uniform and once again fighting to restore freedom to people held captive in their own lands.

The 50th anniversary of the Dieppe Raid recalled the sacrifice Canadians made in the Second World War. Dieppe was a disaster, making August 19, 1942, the costliest day of the war for our nation. Of the 4,963 Canadians who embarked on the raid only 2,210 returned to England. There were 3,367 casualties, 907 of them fatal.

This year our veterans returned to the battleground and tens of thousands citizens of Normandy applauded as Canadians marched through the streets of Dieppe.

More than one million Canadians and Newfoundlanders served in the Second World War. Of these, more than 45,000 were killed and a further 55,000 were wounded.

Next year it will be the turn of our Korean War veterans to mark the 40th anniversary of the cease-fire halting their war.

Over 26,000 Canadians volunteered for the Korean War and 516 were killed as a result of it. They were the first Canadians to serve under the flag of the United Nations.

They were the original peacekeepers, a role that has been occupied by many other Canadians in the last 40 years.

Yes, we will have many to mourn and much to be thankful for on November 11.

The men and women who served Canada in the two World Wars and Korea won international renown for their country and liberty for hundreds of thousands of strangers in distant lands.

From Vimy to Sarejevo, Canadians have put their lives on the line so that many others might have hope and happiness.

The words on a plaque in honour of Canadians killed on the beach at Puys, near Dieppe, could speak for all of us who will be gathering for Remembrance Day ceremonies.

It reads: "You who are alive on this beach, remember that these men died far from home that others, here and elsewhere, might freely enjoy life in God's mercy."

Crime of the week

Sign stolen from Kennisis marina

During the weekend of October 10-11, a four by eight foot sign, worth more than $3,500, was stolen from County Road 7, just south of Kennisis Lake. The sign is blue and white plastic with Kennisis Lake Marina embossed on it. Two vehicles were seen in the area at the time of the theft. The first, the suspect vehicle, is described as a full-size pick-up occupied by two males. The second is a car which stopped just for a minute or so while the truck was there. It is believed the car is not involved.

If you have any information about this or any other crime, call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-TIPS (8477). You will never be asked to reveal your identity or to testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest Lindsay Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 in cash.

For Your Service

by Gerald Irish

I have been asked questions such as "Why do you belong to Legion?" and "What does the Legion do for this community?" Here are some answers.

Legion is providing low rental housing developments in 15 Ontario communities. Haliburton is one of these communities, e.g. Echo Hills Apartments.

Your Legion is involved in a bursary and scholarship program. Over 209 branches award more than $200,000 annually for student education.

The Ontario Provincial Command Bursary Program underwritten by the Ladies' Auxiliaries to the Branches, awards in excess of $325,000 each year. Branch 129 L.A. gives out hundreds of dollars each year to local students. This was made abundantly evident on Saturday evening, October 24, at the Honours and Awards ceremonies at the high school. L.A. president Kay Wyllie presented scholarships of $100 each to students Lynn Peacock and Elizabeth Shaw. Branch 129 president Wally Chambers presented the year 4 Auto Mechanics scholarship of $50 to Ross Lemon and the G4 Machine Shop scholarship of $50 to Allan Jeans. Your Public Relations Officer Gerald Irish presented the Year 4 Office Procedures scholarship of $50 to Michelle Wright and to Tracy Simms, an outstanding OAC graduate, a scholarship of $100. Your Youth Education Officer, Joan Irish, presented the Legion bursary of $200 to a general level graduating student, Jodi McCracken. Joan also presented the Earl Shipley Memorial bursary of $100 to a graduate pursuing further education in a medical field, Robyn Raeburn. Altogether your branch and L.A. made presentations totalling $750.

This branch and 222 others are involved each year in Public Speaking contests culminating with the Provincial Finals. Over 150 branches, yours included, sponsor Literary and Poster contests in Ontario, leading to National competition.

Legion branches in Ontario sponsor or financially support youth hockey, softball, baseball, lacrosse and soccer.

Branch 129 sponsors the Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps #1129. 142 other branches sponsor Navy, Army and Air Force Cadet Corps for boys and girls. Ontario legions also sponsor 233 Scout troops and Cub and Girl Guide packs. Branch 129 can point with pride to the Army Cadet Corps they sponsor. They recently were awarded the Colonel John H.C. Clarry trophy for the top army cadet corps in Ontario - Quite an honour for the corps and for your branch as sponsor.

Many branches support and/or sponsor Gymnastics and Figure Skating clubs, Beavers, Majorettes and Bands etc. Branch 129 is involved with many of these, especially the Legion Pipe Band.

The Ontario Provincial Command is co-sponsor with the Ontario Safety League in the Ontario Summer Safety program. Funds have been established to assist in the needs and care of our veterans in hospital. Your branch was the leader in fundraising for the CatScan in a Peterborough hospital and supports local hospitals financially and with equipment donations. The fund raising campaign in this area was spearheaded by Branch 129 Comrades Mabel Brannigan and Jack MacDonald.

This is only a partial list of our involvement in this community and the communities in Ontario. Legion is a very important part of any community. Legion has as its primary aim SERVICE.

I belong to Legion and am proud of it. A fun-loving group of comrades from Branch 11 in Toronto visited your branch on Tuesday, October 20. On Sunday, October 25, 22 legionnaires and L.A. members and 12 legion band members travelled to Brechin for a service of remembrance there. It was really good to have Don Johnston come out of retirement for the day leading the parade. Thanks, Don.

A few years ago your executive put up a glass faced case in the club room where Legion veterans pictures are displayed. Is your picture there? Do you have a picture of you when in the services? If so, bring it to the Legion. We'll make sure it gets up there. Let us fill the display case.

Plan now to attend a Pub afternoon on Sunday, December 6, starting at 2 p.m. Excellent entertainment will be provided by a father-son duo who will regale you with music and comedy. You'll have a great time. Tickets are $6 advance and $7 at the door. Proceeds will go to the building fund. Come out, have fun and support your branch. All legion members who love curling are reminded to sign their entry forms for the first annual Jack Bassett Memorial bonspiel. Make up a team, pick up your entry form at the branch and enter the bonspiel to be curled on Saturday, November 21.

See you at the general meeting on Thursday, November 5.

Greens must face new life

Death of founder marks a new beginning for first environmental Party

Last week, the body of Petra Kelly, the intense firebrand of the German Green party was found after what police believe was a murder-suicide by her longtime companion. It was a tragic ending for a woman who had inspired so many of us with her passion and idealism.

Kelly was part of a movement that shocked conventional politics with its powerful showing in the early '80s.

And in many ways, her premature and abrupt death seemed somehow to reflect the fate of the Green movement that had had such a galvanizing effect on European politics. Once a presence to be reckoned with, Germany's Greens seem a spent force torn apart by internal bickering and ideological disputes.

Because of proportional representation whereby parties receiving votes above a minimum number gain parliamentary seats, Greens burst on the scene in 1983 when they earned 24 seats in the German Bundestag.

By 1987, they held seats in six of West Germany's 11 state governments. They were a genuine alternative to politics as usual, founded on the issues of the environment and nuclear disarmament and the only party to clearly articulate the unsustainability of endless economic growth.

In 1989, Britain's Green party scored a stunning electoral gain in the European elections when it was supported by 2.3 million people representing 15 percent of the electorate.

A month later, a poll found that 45 percent of all respondents would "seriously consider" voting Green in the next election and for those under 35, the number rose to 53 percent.

As paying membership to the Green party skyrocketed to 18,000 member, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher summoned her cabinet to discuss ways to wrest power from the movement. Shortly thereafter, she surprised environmentalists with her declaration that she was a "greenie".

Only three years later, while fielding a record 253 candidates for office, Britain's Green party polled a miserable 170,000 votes (1.3 percent), electing none. Membership has plummeted to below 6,000 members.

In September, the party's annual meeting was a rancorous, bitter and divisive affair, a sad comedown that should provide lessons to all environmentalists seeking to be politically effective.

Greens everywhere face the fundamental question of whether they are a new way of living, a new spiritual movement or just another political party. Can they be truly different if they function like a conventional party by using power and personality which often corrupt the democratic process?

German Greens rotated their members of Parliament to avoid the perception that any one person or group spoke for the party.

Like many other movements, Greens constantly agonize over compromise and doctrinal purity. Is the party different simply because of its stated goals, or in the way its members within the ranks actually run it?

Can the party function with no leaders and followers, but with equal members who make decisions by discussion and consensus? These are not inconsequential questions, but trying to live the ideals can mean paralysis, often over trivia, and discussions that seem to go on forever and never lead to action.

Petra Kelly's intelligence, commitment and eloquence made her a highly mediagenic, natural "leader" but created enormous internal dissension among members who did not believe in leaders.

Jonathan Porritt, a savvy, articulate and pragmatic member of the British Greens (and former director of Friends of the Earth U.K.) had a similar experience. He eventually dropped out of an active party role in frustration over the unwillingness of purists to consider compromise and develop a plan of action.

In August, Sara Parkin, the latest chair of the British Green party executive and another attractive personality with a high media profile, resigned in frustration over the constant infighting over her role and resistance to compromise in order to achieve specific goals.

In a revealing letter of resignation, she wrote: "I have been forced to the conclusion that the Green party has become a liability to green politics...I see no point in squandering my time, energy and spirit on fighting endless redundant skirmishes behind the barricades. There are so many real battles to be fought against the forces destroying our world."

In an interview, she added: "There is a general feeling inside the Green party that what matters more are the internal wranglings."

When Parkin left, half of the executive left with her.

In Germany, the Green party has already had a political impact by forcing the government to take the environment seriously and begin to act green. It is not a coincidence that Germany played a leading role in Rio and is light years ahead of countries like Canada and the U.S. in its environmental policies.

It may be a contradiction, but Petra Kelly and the Green party have played a critical historical role of leadership for which we should all be grateful.

Santa Claus is coming to Minden town

All you kids be sure to mark Saturday, November 28 on your calendar. That's the day Santa Claus arrives in Minden. The parade will start at the arena at 2 p.m. It will move along Parkside Street to Bobcaygeon Road, along Main Street and end at McKnight Drive. Immediately following the parade Santa Claus will be at the Fire Hall for a visit with the children. Pictures of the children will be taken by Russ Duhaime and will be the compliments of our Community Parade Committee. Two bands are anticipated to take part in this year's parade, weather permitting.

Although the Lions Club members co-ordinate the Santa Claus Parade, it is a community project and any organization or individuals wishing to assist can do so by contacting any Club member. Watch The Times for your parade entry form, or a form can be picked up at Jug City or McMahon Feed and Harness.

In June, 1990, Lions International seized the greatest opportunity in Lions history when they publicly launched Sight First - Lions Conquering Blindness at the St. Louis International Convention.

The opportunity to eliminate preventable and reversible blindness wherever in the world it exists is not an easy task, but certainly is a task for which Lions Clubs are uniquely qualified through experience and tradition.

Had Lions not acted, it is very likely the number of blind would have doubled by the year 2015 or even before. In the country of India, approximately 10 million people are blind from cataracts, by far the world's leading cause of blindness. Despite our best efforts, and the efforts of other dedicated individuals and groups, the number of new cases exceeds the number of cataract surgeries Lions and others are able to do.

Because of Sight First, we now have hope. During the past year alone, some 200,000 cataract surgeries have been performed in India under the Sight First banner at an average cost of $15 U.S. each, and these efforts will continue and expand in the months and years to come.

At the same time, the increasing need for trained eye and health management personnel is being addressed through the expansion of facilities at the world-famous Aravind Eye Hospital, whose graduates will work not only in India, but throughout the developing world. With the ultimate provision of a series of base eye hospitals, proper eye health care for the people of India and others is now, thanks to Sight First, a challenging but achievable goal.

For Your Service

Sight First programs are also underway in Latin America. In Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Peru, Venezuela and Uruguay, Sight First: Project Cataract is bringing eye care to defined geographical areas. The ultimate aim is to eliminate the cataract backlog, but in the intensive screening involved many other problems are uncovered and treated.

We know, for example, that several hundred million people who are not legally blind can not function at their best without proper eye glasses, eye glasses that they simply can not afford. Lions have, of course, collected used eye glasses for many years. But now, through a Sight First pilot project in the United States, a complete system of collection, grading, packaging, computerized inventory and distribution has been developed to ensure quality control and a strong Lions identity throughout the process.

Your Minden Lions have been collecting old eye glasses since the late Lion Cliff Lacey made it his project. Since its induction over 6000 pairs have been collected. At the present time you can drop your old eye glasses in the special containers at these locations: Dollo's IGA, McMahon Feed and Harness, Apparitions and the Rhodes Medical Centre.

CAA issues child safety belts alert

The Canadian Automobile Association (CAA) is alerting consumers to a safety problem with certain Century STE convertible car seats.

Models affected are the Century 3000 STE, 3500 STE, 5000 STE and 5500 STE manufactured between September 1, 1989 and April 30, 1992, LOT #8909 through 9204.

Century Products Company has acknowledged CAA crash test findings which indicate that the red release button on the front of the restraint system could rotate upward causing buckle release to be very difficult.

The problem has been eliminated on newer models and there have been no reported incidents of the buckle release problem during a motor vehicle collision. However, consumers are requested to contact Century Products Company at 1-800-231-2755 for a free retrofit kit.

Seniors visit Skyline Park

On Saturday, October 24, we were honoured by having Marjory Rennick with us for a sing-a-long. We sincerely thank her, especially as she has a long way to come.

Sunday, in honour of Bob Mitchell's birthday, his family invited the residents to a family party for Bob in the auditorium. We thank them and wish Bob much health and good wishes. In the evening, Chapel Service was conducted by Rev. John Burgess. He carries on no matter how heavy his cares.

Monday, Hyland Crest Home Auxiliary held their monthly meeting in the craft room. There was a good attendance of 21 members with plans for the Christmas Bazaar being completed for November 6. Pat Bradburn and Bette Herlihey showed the Monday night movies, Tuesday night. They were "South African Game Reserve" and "The Orphans". Thank you Pat and Bette. For our craft project we made Santa Claus faces with the guidance of Dottie Muirhead.

Wednesday, with Mervin Barry driving, we had a bus trip to Skyline Park. Here we enjoyed a delicious lunch while seeing the country for miles around. We returned via Eagle Lake, West Guilford, north side of Green, Maple and Beech lakes to Carnarvon. We stopped at Kawartha Dairy in Minden for ice cream. Many thanks to Merv, Jean Robson, Dottie and Linda (Convenor).

Congratulations to Mary Smith and Robina Thomas whose birthdays were October 26 and 27 respectively.

Thursday I had a day away in Peterborough. Terry and Norma took me to shop and see my sister, May Roy and Jackie Yateman. Thursday tea party was given by the Minden Hookers. Due to my absence, I thank all who attended the party and I am sure they enjoyed themselves. Bingo was played Thursday evening with Brandon Jarvis and Valerie Patterson calling, who we thank from our hearts.

October 30, Happy Hour was held in the auditorium. The residents and friends were entertained by Bill Payne, Eldon Deacon and Don Burch. Don, Ellen Holden and Mary Guillemin cared for our needs. We thank them all sincerely.

The Haliburton County Home Support Services wish to make sure all seniors over 55 years and/or physically challenged (18 years or older) who require the support services know what is provided in these services in the County. October has come and gone. The first half was quite pleasant, considerable sunshine, but cool. The last of the month was quite cold and with more than normal snow. The average temperature was 3.2 degrees Celsius colder than last October. Rainfall was about half the amount of last October.

We decided to check the weather elsewhere and picked Australia and the surrounding area. It was sunny in Cairns and quite warm. Sydney was sunny and warm. Melbourne was sunny, but slightly cooler. New Zealand's south island was cool with some rain. New Zealand's north island was warmer, but quite rainy. Fiji was just perfect with sunny weather and very warm - easy to get an instant tan if so desired. All in all a perfect holiday.

Thanks to Brendan Berube for looking after the weather in these parts.
